

Business Terms for Securities Trading

Effective from March 15 2024

The following terms apply to securities trading at Nykredit Bank. You can find the latest Danish version at nykredit.dk.

Legislation uses the term "financial instruments" for the securities governed by the regulatory framework – including equities, bonds, investment certificates, units in Exchange Traded Funds ("ETFs") as well as derivative instruments such as swaps, futures, options, etc. For the purpose of these terms, the terms "securities" and "financial instruments" are used interchangeably.

Nykredit Bank offers securities trading in four different ways:

- trading in Nykredit's online banking service where you can trade in securities without receiving any advice from the Bank. Nykredit's online banking service comprises MitNykredit for personal customers and MitNykredit Erhverv for business customers.
- staff-assisted trading where you can place orders in and obtain advice on most types of securities/financial instruments.
- in FX Online where you can trade in foreign exchange and certain types of derivative financial instruments covered by these terms without receiving advice from the Bank.

- by concluding a portfolio management agreement, whereby you mandate Nykredit Bank to trade securities on your behalf and where you agree with the Bank which types of securities the Bank may trade.

These Business Terms for Securities Trading contain:

- business terms for trading through Nykredit's online banking service;
- business terms for trading through Nykredit Bank staff;
- general business terms applicable to all types of trading; and
- business terms for trading under a portfolio management agreement.

In addition to the above terms, the following applies:

- Client Agreement on Securities Trading;

- custody agreement in case of trading in securities held in a custody account with Nykredit Bank;
- provisions for trading via FX Online as described in separate terms;
- framework agreements concluded with Nykredit Bank in case of trading in financial instruments covered by a framework agreement;
- portfolio management agreement where such an agreement has been concluded; and
- Nykredit Bank's General Business Terms where they are not derogated from.

Sustainability

Nykredit Bank generally offers investment advice and portfolio management in accordance with Nykredit's Sustainable Investment Policy. As part of determining your investment profile, we also inquire about your sustainability preferences, including whether you prioritise sustainable investing, taxonomy and/or principal adverse sustainability impacts that we should take into consideration. Your replies form an integral part of your investment profile that constitutes the basis for the advisory and asset management services offered to you.

Warning against market abuse, etc

Please note that you are responsible for observing current legislation, including the rules on insider trading and market abuse laid down in the Market Abuse Regulation. Please also note that it is prohibited to affect prices by placing offsetting orders in the market in which you want to buy or sell securities. Such conduct constitutes market abuse (previously known as market manipulation) and thus a violation of the Market Abuse Regulation. Market abuse is punishable by fine or imprisonment. We reserve the right not to execute your order if we suspect insider trading or market abuse.

Information provided by you

For the purpose of trading securities with you, we require certain information about you.

Without this information, we may not be able to initiate a trade on your behalf. You are responsible for providing us with the relevant information upon request.

If you do not have an account and custody account for settlement of a trade with Nykredit Bank, we may, in accordance with the rules of EU Regulation No

909/2014 (CSDR) and Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) 2018/1229 with regard to settlement discipline

(CSDR-RTS), be required to obtain settlement information from you regarding the trade. If, after entering into a trade, we notify you to this effect, you are obligated to send us written settlement information, as stated in Articles 2 and 3 of the CSDR-RTS within the timeframes set out therein. By submitting such information, you also confirm acceptance of the terms of the trade. If we receive all the aforementioned settlement information in advance, we will not require the written information and confirmation mentioned above.

As a rule, for legal entities, we require a LEI code, which is a global standard designed to identify legal entities (companies, etc). For example, it applies if you want to trade in securities admitted to trading in a market place (eg Nasdaq Copenhagen). If you apply for a LEI code, you should expect some processing time.

As for natural persons, we require information about your citizenship, including whether you are a dual citizen.

You must inform Nykredit Bank if you engage in short selling. Short selling roughly means that you sell financial instruments that you do not own at the time of the sale. If you do not inform Nykredit of such activities, we will assume that you are not engaged in short selling.

A. Trading through Nykredit's online banking service

You can trade in securities through Nykredit's online banking service. Certain derivative financial instruments and foreign exchange are tradable through FX Online, which is accessible via Nykredit's online banking service upon request to the Bank.

You can view the status of your orders in Nykredit's online banking service.

Trading in non-complex securities through Nykredit's online banking service takes place without Nykredit Bank having assessed whether the particular security is suitable for you.

Accordingly, when trading in non-complex securities through Nykredit's online banking service, you are not covered by the protection laid down in sections 10 and 13 of the Executive Order on Investor Protection in connection with Securities Trading (the "know-your-customer" principle).

A.1 Connecting to Nykredit's online banking service

In order to trade securities through Nykredit's online banking service you must sign a supplemental agreement on MitNykredit securities trading and a custody agreement and have access to a cash account and a custody account with Nykredit Bank. The custody account may neither be blocked nor pledged in favour of a third party. You can order a custody account by calling Nykredit Bank, tel +45 70 10

90 00 (personal customers) or tel +45 70 10 90

10 (business customers)

The use of Nykredit's online banking service is subject to the terms and conditions laid down in the Supplemental Agreement on MitNykredit Securities Trading.

A.2 Opening hours

You can place orders through Nykredit's online banking service on all weekdays between 6:00 and 22:00. However, some order types may only be placed on official stock exchange trading days and within a specified period of time.

A.3 Order types

Changes in opening hours will be announced via Nykredit's online banking service. A.3 Order types

In Nykredit's online banking service you can place orders in three different ways:

- Market orders (equities, bonds and investment certificates)
- Market orders – immediate trades (Danish equities, bonds and investment certificates)
- Limit orders – on-exchange trades (equities, bonds and investment certificates)

Market orders

When you place a market order, Nykredit Bank will seek to execute your order on a commission basis, provided that the trading systems of the Bank and the trading venue (eg Nasdaq Copenhagen) are accessible and where general market conditions so permit. Market orders will be executed at Nykredit Bank's discretion as an on-exchange trade, through a trading partner, or as a trade with Nykredit Bank as counterparty. If Nykredit Bank is counterparty to the trade, it will appear from your trade confirmation. By placing your order as a market order, you accept that the trade may be executed outside a regulated market.

Market orders generally apply for 30 calendar days.

In executing the order, Nykredit Bank will attempt to obtain the best possible result up to and including the order expiry date. The order will subsequently be deleted automatically.

When you place a market order, you must state the size of your order. The expected trade amount may then be estimated on the basis of

You can also enter a trade amount and obtain an estimate of the number/nominal amount such trade amount will buy based on the last traded price (with delay) on the trading venue (for certain foreign equities and ETFs, this amount is calculated on the basis of the closing price on the most recent trading day). Please note that when placing a market order you must always enter the number/nominal amount based on the latest trade price. The final trade amount will depend on the price at which Nykredit Bank can execute the order. When you place bond orders, estimated accrued interest will also appear on the screen. If your order is not executed on the same day it is placed, the accrued interest will not be the same as the accrued interest of the final settlement. The reason for this is that accrued interest is calculated based on the day the trade is executed.

Nykredit Bank may execute market orders based on accumulated orders from several customers. Market orders are executed according to the rules of best execution, see Nykredit Bank's Order Execution Policy. This means that orders for less liquid securities where the difference between bid and ask prices may be relatively large will not be executed at the bid and ask prices available upon receipt of the order. Pursuant to the execution policy, the trading venue may differ if this offers a better result for the customer.

If the particular securities are not traded on eg Nasdaq Copenhagen or another trading venue used by Nykredit Bank, your order will be settled at the best price obtainable by Nykredit Bank, see C.8 "Extraordinary market conditions, etc". In such case, Nykredit Bank also reserves the right not to execute the order. The trading venues used by Nykredit Bank are described in more detail in Nykredit Bank's Order Execution Policy.

If Nykredit Bank is unable to execute the entire order, the Bank reserves the right to only execute part of the order. Moreover, ordinary orders may be split up and executed as several trades. For example, if you place an equity order in the amount of DKK 50,000, your order may be executed in three portions at different prices. Two trades of DKK 20,000 and one of DKK 10,000. As a result, an order may possibly only be executed in part. You will only receive one aggregate statement per order per day from Nykredit Bank. If an order is traded over several days, commission will be charged per trading day.

Market orders – immediate handel

Market orders – immediate trades may be executed for a number of specific Danish securities. Using market orders – immediate trades, you trade at current market prices. This means that the exact trade price and amount are known. However, a trade is not final until the Bank has received and approved the order.

Immediate trades are concluded with Nykredit Bank as counterparty.

Nykredit Bank quotes an immediate price based on the liquidity of the security and the market price level, etc. Nykredit Bank's access to quote immediate prices may be restricted, see C.9 "Extraordinary market conditions, etc".

Immediate trades are executed according to the rules of best execution. See Nykredit Bank's Order Execution Policy.

Immediate trades are transactions executed outside a stock exchange or another regulated market. By placing your market order as an immediate trade, you accept that the trade will be executed outside a regulated market.

Nykredit Bank reserves the right not to quote immediate prices for securities.

The trade will appear from Nykredit's online banking service including all trade details.

The terms specified under "Market orders" apply in all other respects.

Limit orders – on-exchange trades

When you trade through Nykredit's online banking service, your orders in equities, bonds and investment certificates can also be executed on the trading venue.

When you choose to trade on the trading venue, as a rule, your order will, following validation, be submitted to the trading system of the trading venue.

Nykredit Bank may choose to place your on-exchange order outside the trading venue where Nykredit Bank will act as counterparty to the trade if, upon validation of the order, Nykredit Bank finds that this is to your advantage. If Nykredit Bank is counterparty to the trade, it will appear from your trade confirmation. By placing your order as an on-exchange order, you accept that the trade may be executed outside a regulated market.

If the order does not meet the parameters set for transmission of orders, it will automatically be suspended and handled by a staff member for the purpose of manual execution. One example is a financial instrument that is not sufficiently liquid for an order to be submitted directly into a trading system.

The order will generally be valid until the trading venue closes. You may, however, specify a longer order period, but no more than 30 calendar days from the date of the order.

The order will subsequently be deleted automatically.

Orders placed on the trading venue must include a limit price and are therefore limit orders.

The trade will be executed when/if counterparties are found on the trading venue. Placing orders in markets in Asia, Australia and New Zealand is only possible between 06:00 CET and 10:00 CET, even though these markets may be open. Orders placed between 06:00 CET and 07:00 CET will not be executed until 07:00 CET at the earliest, as Nykredit Bank's business partners do not receive the orders before then.

When you place an order on the trading venue, your order may be split up and executed as several trades.

For example, if you place one equity order of DKK 50,000, your order may be traded in three portions at different prices. Two trades of DKK 20,000 and one of DKK 10,000. As a result, your order may possibly also be executed in part only. You will only receive one aggregate statement per order per day from Nykredit Bank. If an order is traded over several days, commission will be charged per trading day.

Orders placed on the trading venue must comply with the rules on trading in the trading venue's systems.

A.4 Amount limits

You may trade up to a certain amount per order through Nykredit's online banking service. The amount limits vary depending on the type of the order. Nykredit Bank may also fix individual amount limits for the respective securities. The amount limit depends on factors such as the negotiability (liquidity) of the security. If your order exceeds the amount limits, the trading system will reject your order. A message will appear on your screen. The amount limits appear from the table below.

Market orders:	DKK 10,000,000

A.5 Rejection of orders

When you place an order through Nykredit's online banking service, Nykredit Bank will check your order. Nykredit Bank may reject your order if for example:

- the order deviates significantly from the current market price, the most recent closing price or the security has been suspended,
- Nykredit Bank cannot procure the security concerned;
- the order exceeds the amount limits permitted in Nykredit's online banking service, the order has been placed directly on the trading venue, and the

- order does not comply with the rules of the trading venue for trades carried out through the trading venue's systems, see "Limit orders – on-exchange trades" above;
- your cash/custody account does not hold sufficient funds/securities. You may, however, sell securities not registered in your custody account once the trade has been executed;
- buying such security for the custody account in question is not allowed, or if you exceed the maximum amounts that may be invested in a specific security for a pension plan account, cf section
- C.8 Trading for pension plan accounts or children's savings accounts.

A.6 Cancellation of orders

If you regret an order placed through Nykredit's online banking service, you may cancel the order unless it has already been executed. Orders executed as market orders – immediate trades cannot be cancelled as they are executed immediately.

If an order has been placed at a trading venue, part of the order may have been executed. If the order has been executed in part, you may only cancel the part not executed. In case you try to cancel your order while it is being executed, the order will not be cancelled.

A.7 Trade information

You can find all trade details as well as trade statuses in Nykredit's online banking service.

A.8 Price information

- a. Via Nykredit's online banking service, you have access to different types of price information. Nykredit Bank may to limit your access to price information.
- b. You are not permitted to disclose price information received via Nykredit's online banking service to a third party.
- c. The price information you receive via Nykredit's online banking service is indicative, and Nykredit Bank is under no obligation to trade at the stated prices. Nykredit Bank and its data suppliers are not liable for the correctness of any price information received by you via Nykredit's online banking service.

B. Staff-assisted trading

Generally, trading with the help of Nykredit Bank's staff is subject to separate agreement.

In connection with staff-assisted trading in Nykredit Bank, you may trade in most types of securities, financial instruments and foreign exchange.

Certain non-complex securities and securities may be traded as "execution only", meaning that the order will be executed without Nykredit Bank having assessed whether the trade is appropriate for you. Accordingly, in relation to "execution only" trades you are not covered by the protection laid down in sections 10 and 13 of the Executive Order on Investor Protection in connection with Securities Trading (the "know- your-customer" principle).

Orders placed via Nykredit Bank staff will be executed as soon as possible from the time when the staff obtain knowledge of the order. If you wish to ensure that the order is executed without delay, you must place the order by telephone or via Nykredit's online banking service.

If you place the order by telephone, you must make sure that Nykredit Bank is informed of the time by which the order is to be executed.

B.1 Order types

You can carry out staff-assisted trades in Nykredit Bank in five different ways:

- Market orders (equities, bonds and investment certificates)
- Market orders – immediate trades (Danish equities, bonds and investment certificates)
- Market orders - with limitation (equities, bonds and investment certificates)
- Limit orders – on-exchange trades (equities, bonds and investment certificates)
- Stop-loss orders (foreign exchange products).

You must state the desired order type when placing your order.

Market orders

When you place a market order, Nykredit Bank will seek to execute your order immediately upon receipt on a commission basis, provided that the trading systems of the Bank and the trading venue (eg Nasdaq Copenhagen) are accessible and where general market conditions so permit. Market orders will be executed at Nykredit Bank's discretion as an on-exchange trade, through a trading partner, or as a trade with Nykredit Bank as counterparty. If Nykredit Bank is counterparty to the trade, it will appear from your trade confirmation. By placing your order as a market order, you accept that the trade may be executed outside a regulated market.

Market orders generally apply for 7 calendar days but may be changed by agreement with a staff member.

In executing the order, Nykredit Bank will attempt to obtain the best possible result up to and including the order expiry date. The order will subsequently be deleted automatically.

Nykredit Bank may execute market orders based on accumulated orders from several customers. Market orders are executed according to the rules of best execution. See Nykredit Bank's Order Execution Policy.

If the particular securities are not traded on eg Nasdaq Copenhagen or another trading venue used by Nykredit Bank, your order will be settled at the best price obtainable by Nykredit Bank, see "Extraordinary market conditions, etc". In such case, Nykredit Bank also reserves the right not to execute the order. The trading venues used by Nykredit Bank are described in more detail in Nykredit Bank's Order Execution Policy.

If Nykredit Bank is unable to execute the entire order, the Bank reserves the right to only execute part of the order. Moreover, ordinary orders may be split up and executed as several trades. For example, if you place an equity order in the amount of DKK 50,000, your order may be executed in three portions at different prices. Two trades of DKK 20,000 and one of DKK 10,000. As a result, an order may possibly only be executed in part. You will only receive one aggregate statement per order per day from Nykredit Bank. If an order is traded over several days, commission will be charged per trading day.

Market orders – immediate handel

Using market orders – immediate trade, you trade at current market prices. This means that the exact trade price and amount are known.

Immediate trades are concluded with Nykredit Bank as counterparty. Nykredit Bank quotes an immediate price based on the liquidity of the security and the market price level, etc.

Nykredit Bank's access to quote immediate prices may be restricted, see C.9 "Extraordinary market conditions, etc".

Immediate trades are settled according to the rules of best execution. See Nykredit Bank's Order Execution Policy.

Immediate trades are transactions executed outside a stock exchange or another regulated market. By placing your order as an immediate trade, you accept that the trade may be executed outside a regulated market.

Nykredit Bank reserves the right not to quote immediate prices for securities.

The terms specified under "Market orders" apply in all other respects.

Market orders – with limitation (limit orders)

If you wish to specify a maximum price in connection with a purchase or a minimum price in connection with a sale, you may specify a limit price on your order. When you have placed a limit order, the expected trade amount will be estimated based on the limit price. Your order is only executed if Nykredit Bank is able to settle your order within the specified limits. You must also specify the order expiry date. The order expiry date must not be more than 30 calendar days from the date of the order. In executing the order, Nykredit Bank will, within this period, seek to obtain the best possible result. The order will subsequently be deleted automatically.

Market orders – with limitation may be executed for a number of specific securities. The terms specified in the sections "Market order" and "Limit orders – on-exchange trade" apply in all other respects.

Limit orders – on-exchange trades

When you trade with the help of our staff, your orders in certain equities, bonds and investment certificates can also be executed on the trading venue.

When trading on the trading venue, as a rule, the order will, following validation, be submitted to the trading system of the trading venue.

Nykredit Bank may choose to place your on- exchange order outside the trading venue where Nykredit Bank will act as counterparty to the trade if, upon validation of the order, Nykredit Bank finds that this is to your advantage. If Nykredit Bank is counterparty to the trade, it will appear from your trade confirmation. By placing your order as an on- exchange order, you accept that the trade may be executed outside a regulated market.

If the order does not meet the parameters set for transmission of orders, it will automatically be suspended and handled by a staff member for the purpose of manual execution. One example is a financial instrument that is not sufficiently liquid for an order to be forwarded directly to a trading system.

The order will generally be valid until the trading venue closes. However, a longer order period may be specified, but not more than 30 calendar days from the date of the order. The order will subsequently be deleted automatically.

Orders placed directly on the trading venue must include a limit price and are therefore limit orders.

The trade will be executed when/if counterparties are found on the trading venue.

When an order is placed directly on the trading venue, the order may be split up and executed as several trades.

For example, if you place an equity order in the amount of DKK 50,000, your order may be executed in three portions at different prices.

Two trades of DKK 20,000 and one of DKK 10,000. As a result, an order may possibly only be executed in part. You will only receive one aggregate statement per order per day from Nykredit Bank. If an order is traded over several days, commission will be charged per trading day.

Orders placed on the trading venue must comply with the rules on trading in the trading venue's systems. For more details, see A.3 "Limit orders – on-exchange trades".

Stop-loss orders – foreign exchange products

Under certain circumstances you can specify that an order must be executed subject to certain specified conditions (if a stop-loss price is reached). In that case, the order will not be attempted to be executed until the stop-loss price has been reached. There is a risk that, due to market conditions, the order may not be traded or may only be traded at a less favourable price than the stop-loss price, for instance. This means that there is no guarantee that a stop-loss order will be traded or that it will be traded at the agreed stop-loss price. A stop-loss order therefore does not constitute any guarantee against losses, and Nykredit Bank cannot be held liable for non-execution of stop-loss orders or execution at a less favourable price.

B.2 Withdrawal of orders

Orders placed are binding from the time of receipt of the order. Orders may only be withdrawn as long as they have not been executed. If the order has been executed in part, you may only cancel the part not executed. Market orders – immediate trades cannot be withdrawn.

C. General business terms applicable to trading through Nykredit's online banking service, staff-assisted trading or otherwise

C.1 Suitability statement

When Nykredit Bank provides investment advice to you as a retail customer, a written suitability statement is prepared before the trade is executed, specifying the investment advice given and how such advice aligns with your preferences, objectives and other characteristics. We advise you to read the statement immediately upon receipt.

If you enter into an agreement with Nykredit to buy or sell a security by means of remote communication which prevents the prior provision of a suitability statement, Nykredit Bank may provide the suitability statement in a durable medium without undue delay after execution of the trade.

If Nykredit Bank provides portfolio management services, or if, while providing investment advice, Nykredit Bank has informed you that we will carry out a periodic assessment of suitability, the periodic report will contain an updated statement of how the investment meets your preferences, objectives and other characteristics.

C.2 Custody account registration

When you trade securities, they will appear in your custody account immediately upon execution. The funds required to buy the securities are reserved immediately. The number of settlement days will vary, but it will typically take 2-3 trading days. When the trade has been executed, you will receive a trade confirmation from Nykredit Bank containing registration and settlement details. You should check that the trade confirmation corresponds to the agreed trade.

C.3 Payment

Your purchase of securities is initially conditional on sufficient funds being available in your account (subject to price changes and charges). If the amount is not finally settled with the Bank, eg if your account(s) does not hold sufficient funds, the Bank is entitled to either reverse your purchase immediately and without notice or to complete the purchase as an unauthorised overdraft. Costs (including any compensation payable according to the CSDR Regulation) related thereto and losses, if any, will be payable by you. Correspondingly, your sale of securities is correspondingly conditional on the availability of the securities concerned at the time of the sale. If this condition is not met, the Bank will be entitled to cancel your sale immediately without notice. Costs related thereto and losses, if any, will be payable by you. If you place your order through Nykredit's online banking service, the securities must be available in your account when the order is placed, or a trade must have been executed which has not yet been registered physically in your custody account. Nykredit Bank will generally rely on current market practice with regard to charging from and transferring compensation payments to you in accordance with the CSDR Regulation.

If you have traded swaps, futures, options or foreign exchange trades, etc, the exact payment dates will be specified in the trade confirmation. If you have traded such instruments in DKK, you will receive a payment advice note three weeks prior to the due date of payment. You must then ensure the availability of sufficient funds in your DKK account with Nykredit Bank.

In case of payment of interest rate and currency swaps in another currency, it may have been agreed that the amount must be exchanged into DKK. In that case you will be further notified of the relevant exchange rate. Such notification will be sent approx two days before the due date of payment. Also in this case, you must ensure the availability of sufficient funds in your DKK account. An FX spot contract will then be entered into two days before the value date.

If no exchange has been agreed, and foreign currency is transferred from another bank instead, you must transfer the amount two days earlier to ensure the correct value in your FX account with Nykredit Bank.

For futures, swaps, etc, you may have agreed to provide collateral deposited in a margin account or to transfer securities as collateral. In that case, this will be stipulated in a separate agreement.

C.4 Cancellation of orders or trades

Trading venues may, in exceptional circumstances and in accordance with their own rules, suspend or cancel orders or trades. If a trading venue cancels or suspends a securities trade or a securities order, Nykredit Bank will be entitled to cancel or suspend corresponding orders or trades where the securities are traded with you. This applies whether Nykredit Bank has traded with the trading venue on your behalf or Nykredit Bank has been a counterparty to the trades.

Nykredit Bank may cancel an order or a trade if, in our opinion, it does not reflect market conditions, we suspect insider trading or market abuse, if we suspect money laundering or terrorist financing, or if any other circumstances concerning you as a customer or the security give rise to cancellation.

We are not required to contact you by telephone prior to cancellation, but we will always inform you that we have cancelled your order or trade. If a trade is cancelled, Nykredit Bank will return the relevant securities and funds to the parties involved.

C.5 Changes to orders or trades

The trading prices provided by or to Nykredit Bank may be erroneous. Nykredit Bank is not bound by a trade at an erroneous trading price if Nykredit Bank is able to prove that the trading price was obviously wrong at the time of trading or that you knew or should have known at the time of trading that the trading price was erroneous. In the above situations, Nykredit Bank is entitled to adjust the trading price to either the trading price at which Nykredit Bank hedged the trade or alternatively the historical market price.

C.6 Redemption of bonds

If you place an order for a sale of bonds just before redemption, there is a risk that the order will be executed after the redemption date. If so, Nykredit Bank will cancel/reduce the trade, and the bonds to be redeemed will be returned to your custody account. Similarly, the trade amount will be withdrawn from your account. Any costs related thereto will be payable by you.

C.7 Collateral

As security for payment, the securities bought by you will be pledged to Nykredit Bank. If there are not enough funds available in your account on the settlement date, Nykredit Bank may maintain the pledge and realise the securities concerned. You will be liable for any losses incurred.

C.8 Trading for pension plan accounts or children's savings accounts

When you buy securities for a pension plan account or a children's savings account, a maximum of 20% may be placed in securities issued by any one issuer. This applies to all types of securities issued by any one issuer, including all types of equities and corporate bonds. Consequently, different securities from the same issuer must be regarded collectively. However, you may always invest a basic amount, subject to annual change, in securities issued by the same issuer. Investment funds as well as government and mortgage bonds are not subject to these rules. Unlisted securities may be subject to additional restrictions depending on pension plan and assets.

C.9 Settlement terms for foreign exchange trading in connection with securities trading

These terms apply to foreign exchange trading in connection with a purchase or sale of securities.

Trading in foreign securities often involves a foreign exchange trade of an amount equal to the amount in the foreign currency of the securities trade. The actual settlement takes place in DKK, unless otherwise agreed.

Unless otherwise agreed, securities are traded on the standard settlement terms applicable in the relevant country. Unless otherwise agreed, the exchange rate is fixed through Nykredit Bank's foreign exchange hedge on the trading day or on the business day following the securities trade at the latest.

The foreign exchange trade is settled at the market rate.

A spread is deducted from/added to the traded exchange rate. The spread appears from Nykredit Bank's list of exchange rates quoted ("Nykredit Banks noteringskurser") at nykredit.dk. The exchange rate applied, including the exchange rate margin, will appear from the trade confirmation.

C.10 Derivative financial instruments

Trading in derivative financial instruments, such as swaps, futures, options and forward exchange contracts, is subject to prior individual agreement.

Forward exchange contracts and swaps may be traded through FX Online, which is accessible via Nykredit's online banking service. Orders in derivative financial instruments are market orders – immediate trades and are subject to the terms of A.3. Derivative financial instrument trades are executed as OTC trades with Nykredit Bank as counterparty. OTC is short for "over the counter", ie a trade concluded directly with the securities dealer outside a regulated market. The price will be agreed on execution of the trade. A number of elements are crucial for the pricing, including the Bank's access to hedging foreign exchange and interest rate risks in the market, the Bank's capital usage and the counterparty risk relating to the trade. When trading in derivative financial instruments, you accept that the trade is executed outside a regulated market.

C.11 Extraordinary market conditions, etc

In case of extraordinary market conditions, Nykredit Bank may choose to derogate from the generally applicable settlement principles. In that case, it will appear from your trade confirmation.

For securities not traded regularly, or not traded in the trading venue's systems, Nykredit Bank will execute your order at a price which represents the best price and conditions in general given the circumstances, taking into consideration the development in interest rates and prices, knowledge of market supply and demand, the price of corresponding securities, information available about the issuer and conditions in general.

C.12 Fees

When you trade in securities through Nykredit's online banking service or with the help of Nykredit Bank's staff, the following fees may be charged:

- commission calculated on the basis of the market value of the trade, however, always a minimum fee;

- price spread;
- foreign trade costs and indirect taxes, if relevant;
- foreign exchange costs; and
- custodian fees.

Current prices of securities trading and custody services appear from the Bank's price lists relating to custody services and securities trading.

D. Business terms for trading under a portfolio management agreement

If you have entered into a portfolio management agreement, trades are executed by Nykredit Bank but at your risk and expense. Nykredit Bank monitors your portfolios on a current basis and adjusts their composition and allocation to individual investment objects according to the expectations for the return obtainable.

Nykredit Bank makes its own investment decisions to the best of its ability and knowledge, but subject to the guidelines agreed separately with you. For example, the type of financial instruments in which investments may be made will be agreed with you.

Following each trade, a trade confirmation will be forwarded to you
